CONDITIONS OF ADMISSION

Participation requests received by the organization are subject to review. Exhibitors who are admitted to the Brussels Games Festival will receive an invoice from Ludiris asbl after submitting their contract. The refusal of the organization is final and does not need to be motivated.

During assembly and the festival's opening hours, the organization may exclude any exhibitors who do not respect these conditions, who offer/sell products that do not fit the theme of the event, or who disrupt the friendly atmosphere of the festival. In this instance, there will be no reimbursement or compensation.

Applications that are only partially filled in will only be kept temporarily. Ludiris asbl is not obliged to commit to them.

FORCE MAJEURE

If the festival has to be cancelled, moved or delayed because of reasons beyond the will and grasp of the organization, payments will be reimbursed after deduction of the costs and expenses made. Such conditions might occur in the event of unforeseen economic and political events, decisions made by the authorities, or a withdrawal of the license. In this instance, the organization cannot be held responsible.

SALES CONDITION

The games being demonstrated can be sold at the exhibitor booth or at associated shops, according to terms that are to be defined with the shops present during the festival. The organization will not demand any commission fee on those sales.

ACCOMMODATION

The exhibitor benefits from a preferential rate for his stay with our hotel partners. Discounts can be offered upon written request (by email) to the organization. Please contact us for more information on accommodation.

INSURANCE

It is the responsibility of the exhibitor to have the necessary insurances to cover his business goods, his staff and any other work-related risks and injuries that might happen to third-parties during the event. The organization cannot be held responsible in case of damage or stolen goods of any kind.

HANDBOOK (VADEMECUM)

Exhibitors will abide by the conditions mentioned in the handbook, which will be sent to them by email a few days prior to the festival. This handbook contains technical information and other instructions concerning the layout of the booths.

2. COMMUNICATION

Web communication of the BGF is based on a website, a Twitter account and a Facebook page. These information tools will be complemented by a regular newsletter using a mailing list of more than 8,000 addresses. Important and "behind the scenes" news of the festival will be presented in a fun and dynamic tone. Please do not wait too long to send us your logos and visuals that allow us to promote your booth.

We regularly organize contests for the public, allowing them to win great prizes on our Facebook page or via our media partners (newspapers, TV and radio). Do not hesitate to contact your contact person (communication@brusselsgamesfestival.be) with any proposals you might have to attract more visitors to your booth.

Use your communication tools (website, newsletter, social networks) to promote your presence at the BGF. Banners will be provided on our website which you can use in your web communication. Visitors are always keen on promotions offered in the booths and shops (such as discounts or special promotions). Let us know about your offers: we will be happy to communicate them to the public.

In order to help us with our communication, we ask you to send the following attachments to Charlotte: logos and images in .png, .eps, .ai or .psd format, with a transparent background and a minimum of 300dpi

3. BGF THEME FOR 2018: "PLAY TO LEARN, LEARN TO PLAY"

Every year since 2016, the Cultural Department of the festival chooses a theme and focuses on cultural mediation, lifelong education and social cohesion. After "accessibility to games and through games" in 2016 and "Diversity in games" in 2017, we decided this year to explore games in their educational form, as a tool for transmitting and acquiring knowledge. When used properly, games are great tools to acquire skills, stimulate the imagination, develop language and reasoning,... All while having fun.

This theme will be treated, in collaboration with our partners, through a publication (BGF Mag edition 3), many animations, meetings, debates and educational workshops, the production of educational tools, and video reports.
